All About Natives

Martin Prochazka, Owner

I worked for ten years at All Native Garden Center and Plant Nursery in Florida (www.nolawn.com). The climate and most native plants are different here, but the principles are the same. I'm about native plant gardening for a few reasons: Native plants can bring such wildlife as year-round and migratory birds, native bees, butterflies, mammals to your yard.. Most plants will reseed and provide food for wildlife. After the first few years, watering is unnecessary, and if the right plant is planted in right place, neither fertilizer nor toxic pesticides are needed.

Botanika Landscape Solutions

Susan Holmes, Owner

I am a licensed nursery grower offering a variety of natives and succulents. I have been landscaping Eugene for 15 years – building gardens, pruning, and maintaining a wide variety of yards from native, to perennial, to vegetable. I also sell plants and produce at the Spencer Creek Grange Community Growers Market.

Cathleen Corlett, ASLA, OR lic#616

541-228-2832
Cathy.corlett@gmail.com

Licensed landscape architect since 2002, available for consulting and design relating to Northwest and California native plant communities, edible, educational and native-compatible environments. Experience with project visioning and phasing, master plans, residential and commercial projects, especially rock gardens, patios and paths, wild bird and wildlife habitat, and beautiful, functional stormwater management. Give me a call and let's talk about your project!

Rachel Foster

With 19 years experience gardening professionally in and around Eugene, I am now primarily a garden consultant and designer. I have a good working knowledge of plants that are locally native. I can suggest those most likely to succeed in the conditions of your garden and design planting schemes if you wish.

After many years running Doak Creek Native Plant Nursery, I now also offers native plant design and consultation services year round. I have designed both small residential spaces as well as larger multi-acre properties and can provide high quality, containerized native plants from the nursery.

Lee Landscape Services

Denis Biesecker, Owner

denisbiesecker@yahoo.com

I do landscape design, installation, irrigation, and maintenance. I have a special interest in native plants and like to use them in the gardens I am involved with to create an environmentally friendly place for birds and insects. I also am an avid vegetable, berry, and dwarf fruit tree gardener and have many years experience in espalier fruit tree culture and training. My ideal garden would include a kitchen garden with herbs, vegetables, berries, and dwarf fruits organized in an efficient and attractive manner with native plants in the perimeter gardens and favorite ornamental plants placed here and there.

Madrona Consulting

Aryana Ferguson, Owner

Madrona_consulting@comcast.net

I have 20 years experience in providing ecological restoration services, including native plant garden design, large-scale land use planning and management, botanical expertise and surveys, and invasive species consultations and management. I have worked on projects ranging from residential native plant and wildlife enhancement, to small-scale rural residential riparian and pond rehabilitation, to managing large riparian and floodplain restoration projects. I work closely with landowners, helping them bring their visions to reality.

Native and Urban Gardens

Holde Fink, Owner
www.nativeandurban.net
541-344-5317
info@nativeandurban.net

We are a full service landscape service providing consulting, design, construction, and garden management services. Our extensive knowledge with both native and non-native plant materials allows us to create site specific plantings that thrive with a minimum of care. Intelligent plant choice based on soil and sun conditions, coupled with rain catchment, passive, and active irrigation strategies, provide the materials for beautiful, dynamic and lasting gardens.

Urban Ecogardens

Heiko Koester, Owner

541-485-7245

urbanecogardens@gmail.com

I offer garden design and consultation for people interested in ecological gardening. I specialize in guiding do-it-yourself clients through the process of transforming their landscapes into lush ecological wonderlands. My extensive knowledge of Northwest native plants has allowed me to design gardens composed exclusively of native plants as well as landscapes with a rich diversity of natives, edibles, medicinals, and ornamentals.

Terraculture LLC

Sarah Whitney, Owner

srhwhitney@gmail.com

I have been designing local landscapes that enhance the function, form and beauty of outdoor spaces for over 15 years. My focus is to tie the urban and natural interface together utilizing native plants and materials that enhance both indoor and outdoor living spaces. Managing stormwater in a beautiful, functional manner tends to be a driving force in my designs. I specialize in greenroofs (aka ecoroofs), raingardens, swales and rainwater harvesting. I can also help you with alternate water sources for indoor use. For examples of work, please see 'landscapes' at my former business, Habitats www.habitatsinc.com.

Willow Hill Landscape Design & Coaching

As an experienced landscape gardener I understand where native plants can best be used for ease of maintenance and habitat restoration. My expertise includes woodland and xeriscape (water saving) plantings, mixing natives with others best suited to the size and characteristics of the site. Taking the artisan's approach to creating well-crafted outdoor spaces that meet very personal needs I can draw up design plans and manage their installation, locating quality professionals for the job. Or I can act as coach, working alongside people doing it themselves.
